- c) to have checked the current regulations and safety protocols of the University of Catania and of the Italian government with particular reference to any internal subdivision into specific areas of epidemiological risk, thus relieving the University of Catania from any responsibility for the consequences of a possible infection from SARS-CoV-2;
- d) to be aware that no reimbursements are foreseen and therefore to assume the additional costs incurred as a result of a possible worsening of the epidemiological situation and the consequent health measures adopted, even without notice, by the competent Italian authorities and / or by transport carriers (airlines, railways, urban and extra-urban public transport) and therefore to relieve the University of Catania from any expenditure not covered by the health insurance mentioned at the following letter i) (biological damage, permanent damage from Covid-19, travel of family members in case of emergency, repatriation, etc.);
